Thunksglylog Proclamation.

By the president of the United States. A proc In furtherance of the custom of this people Arthur, president of the United States, do hereby designate Thursday, the 29th day of November next, as the day for national thanksgiving. The year which is drawing to an end has been replete with avidences of divine goodness, the prevalence of health, the fulluess of harvests. the stability of peace and order, the growth of fraternal feelings, the spread of intelligence and learning, and continued enjoyment of civil and religious liberty. All these, and countless other blessings are cause for reverent rejoicing I do, therefore, recommend that on the day above appointed the people rest from their accustomed labors, and in their several places of worship express their devont gratitude to God that He hath dealt so bountifully with this nation, and pray that His grace and favor may abide with it forever.

CHESTER A. ARTHUR.

Secretary of State.

Matilda Sturlata, who killed Charley Stiles in Cincago last year, will come out of Joliet prison next month, as her term will then expire.

William Pitt Lynde, of Milwaukee, says that General Bragg, will certainly go to congress next year, as he is certain of an election. He also says that Bouck will never run for congress again. He is rich and a bachelor, and has only one ambition, and that is to be governor.

It comes from a very reliable source that Mr. Blaine gets from the publishers of his new book $75,000 cash down and a royalty of 15 cents a volume. There are advance orders for 100,000 copies, and it is expected that fully 300,000 will be sold-This would yield Mr. Blaine $120,000.

The six years Mr. George C. Hazelton spent in congress from this state, have proved financially beneficial. He has become rich, and will spend the winter in Washington, and has engaged a fine house on Capitol Hill, where he will keep his family. He and ex-Congressman Page, of California, are largely engaged in the cattle trade in New Mexico.

Messrs. Calkins & Watrous, of the Milwaukee Sunday Telegraph, make the aunonvernent that they will take subscriptions to that paper for three months, for 50 conts-to begin January 1st, 1881, and also give the time from now till the first of Jaunary. The paper is better than overbright and newsy, and is especially valuable to members of the grand army.

The inequality of the "justice" meled out by the courts is forcibly inhustrated by two cases in Philadelphia: A woman brought suit against the railway company for damages because of the death of her husband by the carclessness of the omployes of that company, and got a verdict of $4,000. A man brought suit against an omnibus company for the loss of his eye, which was but out by the cracker on the driver's whip, and got a verdict of $5,-

Mr. Charles Hazewell editor of the Boston Traveller who died a few weeks ago, could repeat the name of each of the 5,000 volumes in his library, and could also repeat the "Scarlet Letter" word for word, from lid to lid. But his greatest feat of memory was to repeat the sovereigns of England from the old Danish days to Victoria, giving the number of children each had, the dates of their birth and death, and the entire collateral con

There is going the round of the press a little story at the expense of Mr. Evarts which the reading public will appreciate. The great lawyer whose abilities were hardly ever matched by those of any other man's in this country, was arguing a case the other day in New York, when Lord Chief Justice Coloridge was present. The Herald made the following report of the fact: "His Lordship listened to the proceedings in the trial of the elevated railway suit for some time, and for a while manifested considerable interest in the trial. He shortly began to nod, however, and, just as Mr. Everts arose to argue a question relating to the admissibility of certain testimony, the Chief Justice drowsily closed his eyes, and was soon fast asleep."

The largest auditorium in the world is that of the Metropolitan theater, New York, at which Christine Nilsson and Campanini are singing under the management of Mr. Abbey. The cost of each performance is about $6,500, and Mr. Abboy says he pays Mme. Nilsson $2,000 a night; Campanini, $1,000; Scalchi, $500; Del Puente, $250; Novora, $200; secondary singers, $300; orchestra of ninety ut an average of $5 apiece, $450; conductor $50; chorus of eighty, at an average of $3, $240; ballet of 50, at $3, $150; Mme. Cavalazzi, chief dancer, $100; supernumeraries, scone-shifters, costumers. agents, ushers, advertising, heating, gas and the hundred of small expenses which no one not in the business over dreams of, $1,000.

Some papers seem to be very much surprised over the charges made against Decrease in Iron and Steel Imports. Mrs. Belva Lockwood for disreputable practices before the pension office at Washington. That she has been dobarred from practicing in the pension iron and steel from England, said to a department or before the court of claims, reporter: "The falling off in the importance regret but why disappoint portation of these two products, may cause regret, but why disappointmont and surprise? Mrs. Lockwood is what might have been expected. The overmade up her mind years ago to leave the production of iron in this country has prosupputlding of homes to other women tended in that article. She wanted money and notoriety, and was willing the close of each year to engage, upon a day set apart for that purpose, in special festival of praise to the Giver of all good, I. Chestor A. began to struggle a dozen years ago, it did not take her long to understand the ways of the over-officious, over-industrious, and sharp attorneys that practice in the various departments at Washington. She soon became one of them. MAKES HIS BOW.

The Great English Tragedian Irving in "The Bells."

He Scores a Brilliant Success Before a Small But Critical Audience-The "Unliery Gods" Missing.

New York, Oct. St.--Notwithstanding the miserable weather the Star theatre was filled with such an audience as it perhaps never held before. The play was "The and the occasion the first appearance of Mr. Henry Irving. Rain fell in torrents, a warm, steamy rain, and carriages with uncomfortable but expectant occupants were jostling each other, even into the roomy spaces at the junction of Broadway, and Union square. Despite the cain a large errord assembled about the doors, and ticket speculators should about their prices in tones which bordered upon despair, for "easuals" were not numerous in the moist and sticky The appearance of house just before the vise of the curtain was a rather peculiar one, The seats were not nearly all occupied while a double line of standing speciators fringed the back of the parquette and first gallery. The upper part of the house, relegated to the gods, was almost empty. The lower part, however, was quietly filled by auditors who land evidently secured their sents with a serious and critical intention of seving the new actor, and fairly and calmly judging his arts and methods. It was an audience, which, in its composition, was a compliment to Mr. Irving, "It contained many men of note in financial and social circles and the attire of the men and the dresses of the ladies were more elaborate than is usual at an ordinary first night in a New York theatre. seats awallow tails were the rule among the men and many ladies were without their tonnets, the latter apparently following glish custom in deforence English actor they were The beginning of the first act English to the passed quietly. Not a hand had been given until Bir. Terriss appeared, when there was quite a demonstration, a great many evidently mistaking him for Irving. Mr. Irving finally did appear, covered with snow and exuberant with the idea that he was about to have his top boots pulled off, the audience applauded and cheered in a manner which indicated at least a perfect organization if nothing else. The careful distribution of the applicate was obvious. In the first act of the "Bells," the principal character, Mathias, (Mr.

Irving) is merely introduced. He fairly falls in the back of the stage in a most violent manner, and is received by a lot of quiet, sensible people-his wife, daughter and two

Walter-drops his H's, which is certainly not an Alsatian habit, and according to the bill the scene of the play is laid in Alsaco in the winter of 1818 or thereabouts. Mathias (Mr. Irving) immediately becomes the central figure, places himself in the middle of the stage and from that time the nightmare resultant from the story of the murder of the Polish Jew is illustrated by a series of rather jerky but effective scenes, which held the audience until the end of the piece. The wrapt attention of the audience was shown by the fact that in each act no movement of applause was made until the climax was reached and the tableau arranged for the fall of the curtain. The auditors were studying the devel-coment of the dramatic story and the acting of those who were portraying it, and re-served decision until each piece of the drama was concluded. At the end of the first act, in answer to continued applause, Mr.

living appeared twice before the curtain and bowed his thanks. The applause being still maintained, Mr. Irving sent Mr. Terriss to the footlights to respond, evidently recognizing that a liberal share of the audience's commendation belonged to Mr. Terriss' presentation of the character of Christian. Mr.

Terris simply bowed and withdrow. Tho second net of the "Bells", is with-out excitement until almost the last moment, when the waltz score, in which it culminates, comes like a surprise and gives the chief actor his first opportunity for the portrayal of real Buman passion and the lattle of coullicting, emotions in a distracted mind. This brought the first outburst of genuine sympathetic applause, and Mr. Irving was recalled three times.

The third act, which includes the weird and ghostly trial scene, which appears like a trance to the disordered brain of Mathias, and is ingentously pictured to the audience, is the potential climax of the play, and a crucial test of the power of the actor to de-plet the actions of a man, hitherto honored, under the lashing of an accusing conscionce. Mr. Trying's acting in this scene was thoroughly artistic, consistent throughout, and was a revelation of its kind to an American audience. When the green curtain fell the applause was general and long continued. After some minutes of hand chapping, Mr. Irving came from the wings, and standing until quiet was restored, made a brief, graceful, and remarkably epigrammatic speech. He thanked his audience; referred to Miss Terry as his dear friend, and co-worker, announced the fact that she would appear to night. The mention of Miss

Terry's name was a signal for another outburst of appliance. Mr. Irving, continuing, said: "The greatness of your welcome is typical of the greatness of your nature," and ended by saying, "May our loves increase as our days do grow."

Singleton on the Ohio Election. CHICAGO, Oct. 30.-The Ohio election was: an unfortunate thing for the Democratic party," said ex-Congressman James W. Singleton, at the Palmer house. "They are going to put up that man. Hoadly as a presidential caudidate, and divide the west. Before that we had some harmony in the party. The west was pretty well settled upen McDonald. I have nothing against Hoadly personally, but he is a now man. The country knows nothing about him, except in this last Ohio campairs, and he wasn't in that much. There were too many local issues in that cam-paign to enable anybody to tell what strongth he would have as a presidential candidate. McDonald is the best man for the place. He is a thorough Democrat, and nobody can pick a flaw in his record. I think he is really a great man. While I was at the Hot Springs, in Arkansas, this summer, the politicians generally favored his nomination." Mr. Singleton thought Carlish should be elected speaker of the house, but was not sanguine that he would be; that Carter Harrison and Congressman Sparks had the lead for the nomination for governor of Illinois by the Democrats; that "Dick" Oglesby would carry off the Republican nom ination, and that the Democratic National

The letter was written on one side of a sheet of common note paper and is beyond question, Mr. Churchill says, in the handwriting of his daughter. Why she should write so formal or ambiguous a letter he can not understand. Sho, being a girl would naturally write a long and affectionate letter, and that she did not is evidence to his mind that the letter was distated by an older head. This leads to the thought that the girl is held by parties who will later on open negotiations. nothing inclosed in the note, and its only mission seems to be to let her father know she is living. This only makes the matter more mysterious, and there are people here who believe that there is more in the matter than has been made public. Dispatches from Indianapolis say that if the girl was ever in that city she made on sign.

Col. Charctaill turnishes the following eard for publication: "To the public: After a suspense of three months, I am to-day in receipt of a letter from my daughter, Mary Churchill, mailed from a distant city. As all the papers all over the country have accorded me every facility within their power, and in many cases at great expense, in my search, notwithstanding the injunction imposed by my daughter to withhold from publication the contents of this letter, the duty which I owe my friends impels me to give it,"

I am still a Catholic, for though I associate much with Anglicans it is only because they are nearest to my ideal of a reformed Catholic church. I never had any intention of joining them. I believe that a reform within the Catholic church is possible, and more and more wished for by the people and the lesser clergy. But the reform required is great, though chiefly in discipline, not in doctrine. I wish to place before the American people my idea of Christianity as a large and comprehensive system, repudiating all narrowness; yet I cling to ancient Catholic toctrine, separating the Catholic church from its later Roman acretions." He will lecture through the country for the benefit of his French church.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. SO .- It is reported that the Czar has convoked a family council to meet in December to discuss the proposed reforms in the Russian government. It is stated as the basis of the calling together of all those whose lineage gives them a vital interest in the maintenance of the Romanoff dynasty, that the Czar, while recognizing the justice and even the necessity of granting certain concessions to the people, is still unwilling to proclaim a constitution or take such stops as may ultimately result in curtailing the power of the reigning house, until an ex-haustive discussion and interchange of views.

Such an arrangement would not hurt the Grand Trunk. The more the government is identified with railways, the more it will be disposed to assist in every-thing which would be advantageous to railway interests, and to discourage the introduction of the American system of building lines, which have been needlessly disastrous to English investors. It is unlikely that the Dominion will permit an alliance with American railways."

The Standard is puzzled to understand the a tion of the Dominion. A subsidy of $500,-000 was promised and $300,000 of this sum has already been paid. Now without explanation, this subsidy is withdrawn and an annuity equal to $6,000,000 substituted there-

NEW TIME SYSTEM.

The Plan for Uniform Time Recently Adopted.

WASHINGTON CITY, Oct. 30.—On and after the 18th of November next, the new time, adopted by the railroads of the United States and Canada, will go into effect. Secretary Teller, in response to an inquiry of Secretary Chandler, said he was willing to adopt the new time, 75th meridian, for Washington, a change of eight minutes and twelve seconds in the present system of naval observatory, and is in pursuance of a general plan for a uniform time as corrected by hour meridians throughout the civilized world. The 75th meridian passes somewhat east of Philadelphia, and is the fifth hour meridian from Greenwich, 15 degrees of longitude being equivalent to one hour of The next, or six hour meridian, will pass through New Orleans, and somewhat east of East St. Louis. The seventh will pass through Denver, and the eighth along the east boundary line of California, near Carson, Nev. Maj. Powell, of the geological survey, in a letter to the secretary of the interior, recommending the adoption of the new time, says:.

"Formany years scientific men have been urging the measure. Associations have been organized and committees appointed by scientific bodies, perhaps, in every civilized state-for the purpose of securing it. The plan will be of great value in the collection and comparison of scientific research, there-fore it is greatly desired. In addition to this the railroads of the United States have held a conference on this subject, and the leading a conference on this subject, and the leading roads, together with many of the minor roads, have agreed to the plan as recom-mended by the scientsfic men. Under these circumstances the local change in Washington will be advantageous to all business men and to all who travel by rail. The change for Washington is so slight that it will be hardly appreciable. The letter of the superintendent of the naval observatory is believed to be wise,"

Dashed to Pieces.

CEATTANOOGA, Tenn., Oct. 30.-A frightful accident occurred near the Kentucky state line on the Cincinnati Southern railway. Just as the express train rounded a curve coming at high speed, the engineer saw a man on a high trestle bridge only a few yards abend of the locomotive. The engineer could not check his speed in time and the unfor-tunate man, becoming terror stricken, forgot his only chance of safety, which would have been by hanging to the ties and letting the train pass above him. He attempted to run ahead of the train and was soon struck by the engine and dashed to pieces and hurled to the ground, 150 feet below the bridge.

NOTHING IN IT. The Reported Capture of Zura Burns' Butcher a Canard---AFresh Clue.

Hampton, Iowa, Oct. 30.—The report that the murderer of Zura Burns had been ar-rested here and had confessed his crime turns out to be a mistake. The fellow who is in jail here, and who has given rise to sonsational reports, is one Thomas Win-wood, who has been in jail for some time for aiding prisoners to escape at Marshalltown. He was in Lincoln for some time, but Sheriff Stevens says that he was in jail here at the time the murder was committed. John J. Boyden and R. Forrest, said to be the prosecuting attorney and coroner from Lincoln, were here, and had a long interview with Windwood. When long interview with windwood, when they left they said that they had got nothing out of him that would throw any light upon the mystery. They both went south. Winwood did not care to say anything when interviewed, and the sheriff assured the correspondent that there was no truth in the reports that has gained circulation in regard to the matter. He believes that Winwood's talk is for the purpose of ereating a sensation.

RICHMOND, Ind., Oct. 30.—A quantity of jewelry was purchased by a merchant at Cambridge City Saturday evening from a stranger. On examining a ring the name "Zara Burns" was found engraved but had been partially erased. The officers are on the track of the stranger and hopes are entertained that he may know something about the murder of the Illinois girl.

LOAFED IN THE POWDER HOUSE.

Men Blown to Fengments by a Bynamite Explosion.

PITTSEURG, Pa., Oct. 30.—Brook Tunnel forty miles east of Connellsville, Pa., on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, was the score of a dynamite horror. The powder house of the a dynamic horror. The powder noise of the company was located at the eastern mouth of the tunnel, and contained 1,150 pounds of dynamite for use in widening the tunnel for a double track. Though loading in the powder-house was positively forbidden; the rule was not strictly observed by the men. The morning was wet and disagreeable and five men, the crew of a construction train lying upon a siding near by, sought shelter in the shanty containing the dynamite. Shortly before 9 o'clock a terrific explosion occurred, and the stout sharty and its living occupants disappeared in a cloud of white smoke. Up the track for 200 yards or more, the ground was strewn with strods of first and drops of blood. The face of the rocky cut in which the powder house stood, was adorned in a like ghastly manner. High up on the top of the burnel, fragments of flesh and clothing flattered from the limbs of trees; splinters, the size of a tooth-pick, covered the scene for hundreds of yards in every direction. The names of the victims were as follows: W. the victims were as follows: W. A. Denn, blacksmith, aged 60; A. H. Hurchfield, blacksmith, aged 25; Robert Hammond, laborer, aged 25; George

Reynolds, engineer of the construction train, aged 29, leaves a wife, and Charles Tissue, flagman of the construction train, aged 25, married, but no children.

The cause of the explosion is unknown. A verdict of accidental death was rendered. The detonation was distinctly heard eight miles distant.

WANT PAY FOR THE STEERS.

Suit by a Chicago Man Against a Steamship Company.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 30.-The case of Nelson Morris, of Chicago, vs. the British steamship Colina, libel to recover $16,000 damages for the loss by death of forty-one liend of cattle while on the voyage from this port to Glasgow, Scotland, and depreciated in value by sickness of the balance shipped 200 in number, was taken up for trial before Judge Morris in the United States district court. The libellant alleges that those in charge of the ship did not provide properly condensed pure water, but, on the contrary, the water was impreg-nated with sait, and was unfit for use. The defendants claim that the libellant has been fully paid by the insurance company, for whose benefit the company, for whose benefit the libel was filed, and therefore is not entitled to recover. Messrs. Henry M. Rogers, of Boston, and Sebastian Brown, of this city, are proctors for the libellant, and John H. and George L. Thomas for the defendants.

Libel on the Resurrectionists. BALTIMORE, Oct. 30.—The sensational story published in some of the papers of this city.

and which was telegraphed to a number of journals in New York and other places that an attempt had been made on Saturday night to rob the grave of the fat bride, was spoiled by the majority of people refusing to give it credence, and believing it to be a hoax, as it turns out to be. Mr. Downs, the superintendent of the con-tery where Mrs. Moses is buried, promises the story to be the worst kind of rubbish, without even one grain of truth in its composi-tion. One of the keepers said to a reporter that he had seen but one man in the vicinity of the grave yard on Saturday night. The grave bears no ap-pearance of having been disturbed in the least, much less dug up as the reports telegraphed would have it.

Arnold's Lane.

[Joaquin Miller in Texas Siftings.] "The cannon balls tore the corner of that house off, sir." Down from under my feet came a cracked, piping little voice, and oddly enough in English, too. from the swarm of children there. And of all the extended hands, imploring pennies, her thin hands were not seen except to clutch nervously about the little crutch. The voice was that of a child, but the face was old. The little cripple held on to the side of a low bruch with one hand as she looked up at me with her great, pitiful eyes from under the most wonderful growth of hair ever seen. It looked as if this child, buried here in this place, had stopped growing long, long before, and that her hair had kept on growing as it is said sometimes of persons buried in

"What, you will not take a penny like the others, my child?" "No, because I ain't a beggar, if I be cripple."

"Then sit here on the low bench with me and tell me all about yourself and I will give you a whole bright sixpence all for yourself. Oh! don't be afraid; and don't be ashamed to do it either, for I shall write it all out for a paper, and I shall sell it and get 100, maybe 1,000 sixpences for it. Yes, I work; I l,000 sixpences for it. Yes, I work; I am poor, too. I must go in queer places all over the world like this and get stories, and sell them to pay for bread for my little kids, left alone,-like you are, while I work and wander."

On to the bench she clambered instantly. I, too, was poor, and so we were on a level, looking each other pitifully in the face. The dogs lazily crept away into their corners, the children looked at us curiously, and then slid away to spend their pennies. The washboards kept up their muffled sounds, and the coopers clanged away like a far, faint cello of the roar of musketry more than 100 years ago, here in Arnold's lane. And what a history was hers! She had been born away up at the top of the heights of Quebec. Then her father lost his ship, and went away around Cape Horn as a mate. The mother then died, and then she began slipping down, down, down, till this little cripple, with no legs to speak of, no shape or form, only the great big soul that was in her little body to help her, slid down, down, down, into this! "But papa will come back from around the Horn; and he will take me E of MILWAUKE ST. JANESVILLE down to Saint Ann's, to good Saint (Opera House Block.) Ann's." And here she touched her brow, her breast, left, right, crossing herself devoutly on mention of the good saint's name, and bowing her head. Yes, papa will come from around the Horn, and will take me to good Saint Ann's"-brow, breast, left, right-"and there will be a miracle, and my legs will be straight and strong, and long like anybody's." "And you have never been to tho shrine of good Saint Ann, my child? Why, it is only twenty miles away. You can see the church from the heights of Quebec up yonder."

"No, no, no, and if only I could get up there and see it away off, maybe that would straighten my legs and make. them strong and long like anybody's.

Ah, if I could only get up there and look at the shrine of good Saint Ann"—brow, breast, left, right, and a bowing of the little head till hidden in the black mantle of hair. "Oh, if I could only get up there and see out, and look once down on the shrine, I know my legs would be strong and straight like

I took her in my arms after much coaxing, for I did not care to talk much now, and carried her out to the light of Then, climbing into a carriage, in half an hour we were on the summit of the heights, looking away down the St. Lawrence to the dim little white dot on the bank, which is the distant shrine of Saint Ann, a place that has been visited by cripples for 250 years; a shrine which more than 100,000 people sought last year. Crutches that have been left behind are piled up in little pyramids. Such, in brief, is the shrine of Saint Ann, which this little cripple, now praying silently at my side in the carriage, so longed to see.

"I feel lighter and better than for a long time, ah, good sir, and good Saint Ann"-brow, breast, left, right-"and when my papa comes from around the Horn I know he will tease me all the way down to the shrine of Saint Ann"-brow, breast, left, right-"and she will make my legs long, and strong, and straight like anybody's."

But for all her faith, it was clear to ne as I took her back at sunset, and set her down in the darkness, amid the roar of wishhoands and mallets, that told me in a whisper that it was all her own fault that she had not been out of this dark place for so many years. She could not help looking at the sunshine and the great big houses, and the clean Leave for the North 835 PM people, and so could not keep her mind beave for the North 985 PM people, and so could not keep her mind beave for the North 985 PM people and so could not keep her mind beave for the North 985 PM people and so could not keep her mind beave for the North 985 PM people and so could not keep her mind beave for the North 985 PM people and so could not keep her mind beave for the North 985 PM people and so could not keep her mind beave for the North 985 PM people and so could not keep her mind beave for the North 985 PM people and so could not keep her mind beave for the North 985 PM people and so could not keep her mind beave for the North 985 PM people and so could not keep her mind beave for the North 985 PM people and so could not keep her mind beave for the North 985 PM people and so could not keep her mind beave for the North 985 PM people and so could not keep her mind beave for the North 985 PM people and so could not keep her mind beave for the North 985 PM people and so could not keep her mind beave for the North 985 PM people and so could not keep her mind beave for the North 985 PM people and so could not keep her mind beave for the North 985 PM people and so could not keep her mind beave for the North 985 PM people and 985 PM pe and her eyes and her heart all the time on the shrine far away down the bank of the river.

"But when my papa comes back from around the Horn he will take me in his stand of the little bed lose put on the boat where they lay crippled children when they take them to good Saint Ann's"--brow, breast, left, right - and I will hide my face in my hands and hair and pray, all the way down. Then he will carry me on shore and into the church, and I will fall down at the feet of good Saint Ann'-brow, breast, left, right—"and pray, and pray until I am as light as a feather, and I rise right up and my legs are long and strong, and straight, like anyhody's:" Then I asked her all about her father.

She told me all she knew, and that was so little. However, I got the name of the ship and the date of sailing. It was long before. The child seemed to have no idea of the lapse of years down there in the darkness. And as for Cape Horn, she seemed to think it was only some bend in the river a little distance off. I kissed her, crowded a shilling into her bony and unwilling hand, as I hurried away, and left her there in the damp and darkness with her crutch. T went to a good lady whom I know -we all go to wamen somehow when we want a good deed done—and told her about this queer little girl with her boundless faith in the miracles of Saint

"There will be a miracle; there shah be a miracle?" cried this stout-hearted Protestant lady, with tears in her eyes, as I told her how eager the child was to go down to the shrine of Saint Ann. "Dut," continued the good Protestant lady, "it will not be such a microle as those faithful Catholics believe in: but I will tell you what it will be:" and here she lowered her head and whis-pered slyly: "Her father shall be found. Xes, her father will come to her, and that will be the miracle. Oh, do not fear me, or doubt for an instant that there is a good God. We will take this little girl, take her to-morrow, to the shrine of Saint Ann, and my word for it, her father will come for her from his long voyage around the Horn; for this is the only kind of miracles we have now."

And so it was agreed that we two should take the child to the shrine together. Meantime, the practical Protestant, who did not believe in miracles of to-day, busied herself in trying to get track of the poor absent father. It was nearly a week, however, before we got off, for the days were wet and dreary and the child was hardly strong enough to make the journey there and back on a bad day. We got off at last. It was a great occasion for the child. She uestled her little head, with its mass of wealth, down on my bosom and prayed all the time as I carried her on board and laid her down on the little bench reserved for cripples, before the lamp burning at the feet of good Saint Ann. The good Protestant huy, reading over her, said:

"My child, pray for your father to come to you. I know he will come for to-day, and he will be your legs, and that, my darling, will be the miracle."

"If my papa comes to me from around the Horn," piped the pitiful, failing voice from down there in the white pillows and from under the clouds of black hair, "if my father comes for me after I have come to the shrine of Saint Ann"-brow, breast, left, right-"why, he won't have to carry me at all, for I will run at his side as light as a feather, ma'am, and my legs will be long, and strong, and straight as anybody's."

And so I carried her ashore and the church, and laid her praying at the pitiful feet of the mother of the Holy Virgin, full of faith, and hope, and peace; of boundless belief that a miracle should restore her, and make her strong and straightlike others.

An hour later we came back. She still lay there before the shrine between the two tall pyramids of crutches, left there by the thousands who had been But her little crutch still healed. peeped out over the little shoulder through the clouds of hair. It was time to go, and, leaning over, I took the little one again in my arms. "Oh, I am as light as a feather," she whispered, as she nestled down her little head and I passed out of the church, "and I know that my papa will come from around the Horn, like the good woman said, only I shall rise up and be straight and strong, with legs like anybody's." We laid her down on the little bed in the boat as before. She was, indeed, as light as a feather. Her faith was not shaken. She assured the good Protestant lady that we would not have to carry her on shore, but that she should surely walk at her side. As we left her the woman was crying, but the face of the child was radiant with peace, and faith and hope. At last the

"I know as well as I know that I am living that the father has come into port, and will be waiting to receive her. I know that the day of miracles on earth are over, yet I know that faith like her's has its reward. She must not, she shall not be disappointed entirely; that would kill her. Yes," she continued, as we drew in toward Quebec, "I know that is the solution and way out of it all. The father has not been lost at sea, but he has returned from around the stormy cape, and is waiting for her now."

The boat ground against the wharf, and we went in to get our little charge, after looking in vain among the crowd for some one who might possibly be her father. The woman approached, held back the sheet, touched the clasped hands, and drew back with a cry of pain and terror. The Father had indeed come to take His child to the shore, to that better shore beyond the stormy cape of earth's unrest. She was uly sheriff and assessor of Topsham, Me., writes us on May 15, 1883: "That she had been severely afflicted during several years with kidney and Hver disease, accompanied with severe pains and backache. Having tried many socialed cures, and medicines, and doctor's prescriptions, without receiving any benefit, and while seeking for a cure, she noticed the advertise ment of Hunt's Remedy and decided to try it. Having bought a bottle at Mr. Johnson's drug store, commenced using it with such flattering results that she continued its use, and after using only five bottles the improvement in her health is so marked that she wishes all who are afflicted in like mapper to know of this most valuable and reliable medicine; and she most cheerfully recommends Hunt's Remedy to all, and especially to females who are troubled with the complaints peculiar to the sex."

A. Woman's Affair. Mre. N. H. Small, the wife of the popular dep-

A Family Blessing.

Under date of May 10, 1883, we have received the following information from Mr. Lorenze imbiard, of 18 Charles street, Portland, Maine. Mr. Lombard says: "For several years past I have been troubled with severe backache and pains in the side, and when I would lie down I could not rest well, as it seemed impossible for me to get in an easy position; and my aches and pains increased constantly to such an extent that I became convinced that I had a disease o the kidneys fastened to me, and after having used doctor's prescriptions and many of the socalled enres without gelling any benefit, I was persuaded by a near neighbor, Mr. Jones, to try Hunt's Remedy, as himself and wife had been greatly benefited by its uses, and many others greatly benefited by its uses, and many others of our acquaintances spake of its merits in the highest torms. I decided to try it and purchased a fottle at Nichel's drug store, and as soon as I had taken a few doses of it the pains in my back were relieved, and after taking toreo butles my sidesche and lame-back are cared, and I can truly testify that Hunt's Remedy is an article of great merit, and will do all that is claimed for it, and I know of many other propie in Portland who have found a cure in Hunt's Remedy after all others failed to do any good, and I recommend it to all who have kidney or liver disease, hoping that this may be the means of relieving some sufferer who does not know the merits of Huntys Remedy."

Regular Meeting of the Common Conneil.

The Grist Put Through the Bunte!

pal Mill Last Evening. A regular meeting of the common council was held in the city hall last evening, at which President S. B. Kenyon presided, all the aldermen being present except Aldermen McLean and Smith.

The clerk read the journal of the last meeting, which was approved.

The bond of M. H. Custis, contractor for grading Linn street, was referred to ly reported back by Ald. Palmer as correct, and approved.

Ald. Palmer, a petition for sidewalks in the fourth ward. Placed on file.

A communication was read from Mrs. Mary Ann Kolle, in relation to her sidewalk on Washington street and Mineral Point avenue. Mrs. Kolle states that she had been instructed to build a sidewalk in front of her premises on Washington ward, and that some eighteen months ago she had built a walk composed of gravel, cinders, etc., on Mineral Point avenue, at considerable expense, and that if compelled to build a new walk it would put her to extra expense, and asked the privilege of allowing the present walk to remain. On motion of Ald. Potter her petition was received and placed on file.

Chief Engineer James Foster, of the fire department, submitted the follow-Janesville, Oct. 20th, 1883. To the Honorable, the Mayor and Common Council of the City of Janesville.

GENTLEMEN:-I have the honor to herewith submit the following statement of the condition in which I find the fire department, at the present time.

I'be engine houses are both in good repair, with the exception of a small amount of glazing, and painting the roof of on-gine house No. 2. The steam fire engines are in good work-ıα order. There is now in the department 3,000 feet of fire hose, which have been in use as follows: 1,000 feet since 1876; 1,000 feet since 1881; most of this hose is considered safe, although a length now and then bursts. Besides this we have 700 feet of old hose which cannot be relied upon; yet would not recommend its disuse.

There are four hose carts in use in the department which are in passable order. The book and ladder truck is in good

The heater belonging to the west side engine, leaks, and should be repaired, while the one at the east side house must have a thorough overhauling, or be replaced by a new one, as it is now unsafe to use and have ordered its disuse. A new suction hose has been ordered for the west side engine.

The members of the department are in need of eighteen rubber coats to take the place of worthless ones now in the department. I would suggest that this receive your early attention.

I desire to call the attention of your honorable body to the condition of the approaches to the river at the intersection of the several streets, and to the utter impossibility to get the engines to the water in some of these places. The reservoir in the park, and the one at the first ward school house are in good condition. Some place should be fixed at the head of the race, so that the engines could get water; another at the foot of West Bluff street, and at several other points along

The fact that good health, strong muscles and sound nerves are attamable, should encourage every invalid to an carnest endeavor in the right direction. Remember all disease owes its origin more or less to a lack of iron in the blood. Iron in the blood means health, strength and vigor. Analyze the blood of an invalid and little or no iron will be found. Healthy men's blood is full of iron. The nearny men's blood is fine of Ros. The best method of supplying this lack of iron is by using Brown's Iron Bitters, a sure cure for dyspepsia, general debility, weekness and all medica disease. weakness and all wasting diseases.

Bennett Redical College. ORIGAGO, Oct. 28, 1883.

To the Editor. GENTLEMEN:-Believing that many of your readers will be interested in the following report of a surgical operation recently performed on Elmer, son of J. W. Dean, of Emerald Grove, by Milton Jay, M. D., professor of surgery, in Bennett medical college, of this city, I will ask sufficient space in your columns for its publication. For some two years the young man had been suffering from an affection of the shoulder joint, which had partially destroyed the usefulness of his right arm. Several emment surgeons of Janesville and Chicago had examined it but differed considerably in their opinion of the cause of the trouble. Finally acting upon the advice of Drs. S. S. & w.H. Judd, Professor Jay was consulted, who confirmed their diagnosis, "Caries of the head of the Humerus" and advised its removal, which was agreed to and the operation was performed on Saturday, Oct. 20th, at which time about 4 inches of the upper part of the humerus was removed which was found to be bad. ly diseased; some parts of it entirely destroyed and the surrounding structures very much disorganized also. The operation lasted only a few minutes and was so skillfully conducted that no hemorrhage resulted whatever and the patient has every prospect at present writing of an early and complete recovery, not only from the effects of the operation, but of the use of his arm, which his many friends and acquaintances will be very much pleased to learn, I am sure. Much interest was manifested in the case by medical men, owing to the different diagnoses that had been made and the complets verification of the diagnosis of the successful result of the operation. Yours Truly, J. V. Stevens.

Farm House Destroyed by Fire. The fine farm house about one and a half miles cast of the city on the Mulwaukee road, known as the "Judge O'Connor" place, owned by L. M. Bellon and occupied by Peter G. Power, was with its contents burned to aslies last night. Mr. Tower was the only occupant, his family being away on a visit, and he barely escaped with his life. He slept down stairs and about one o'clock he was awakened by the falling in of the roof of the house, and seizing some clothing near him he jumped out of a window, and in a few minutes more that part of the house which he occupied was in flames. He dressed himself and attempted to get into the kitchen but was driven out by the fire. The house was richly furnished and Mr. Tower estimates that his loss of personal property will reach over $2,500. The house was insured for $2,000 in the Hartford Co., of Hartford. Connecticut, and the contents for $1,500 in the Phonix Co., of Hartford, both in Parson Johnson's agency, A Racine party had a mortgago on the house, which was built at a cost of between $4,500 and $5,000. The fire probably originated Ald. Potter, an order instructing the from a chimney as one burned out the street commissioner to lay a tile culvert day before.—Letoit Free Press of Monday,

The Common Lot of All.

To-morrow, the friends of the late Summer Parker, of La Prairie, and James Shields, of Kansas City, will to called upon to pay a fitting tribute of respect to the memory of each, by assisting at the foneral services. We gave in last evening's Gazette, an extended notice of ardson & Bro. Mr. Parker, but the telegram announcing Mr. Shields' death, was received too late to give but a slight notice.

Mr. Shields had resided in Rock conuty about twenty years, a few years ago living on the farm in Harmony now owned by Mr. Thomas Rooney, he then being a neighbor of his now companion in death, Mr. Sumner Parker. A little over a year ago the Shields family were afflicted by the sudden loss by death of a son, grown to manhood; last winter they were burned out, on their farm in Johnstown, and now they mourn the loss of a kind husband and fether. The family moved to Kansas City, Mo., last brother, Mr. Patrick Shields, of La Prairie. The remains will be taken St. Patrick's church, after the arrival of the Boy's hats and caps. 25 and 30c 1:20 train from Onicago, and after the services at the church, will be interred in Red table linens, fast colors......50c yd for "50 Cents on a dollar," and there were plenty of people anxious to secure the bargains?—Not the second time, however Well we accomplished our object, and then established a permanent store in one of the busiest towns of the state, the cash sales of which exceed those of any Clothing Store in Janesville. This outlet enables us to buy goods in such quantities as to command the very lowest prices; to take advantage of any large lot that a dealer may wish to close out at a bargain, and to fkeep our stock free from unsaleable roods that take up room and interest on money. Under these circumstances we can, Will and DO sell goods cheaper than any house in this part of the state; we furnish a much larger assortment from which to make selections and are the only house in Janesville that ever dared to mark goods in plain figures and stick to the price every time, thereby extending a uniform treatment to all. The time of our salesmen is not spent in wrestling over the price, but in doing their utmost to please customers and money will be returned for any goods misrepresented by them. Our Fall and Winter stock is now ready for your inspection and you are perfectly safe in looking it over without fear of being importuned to buy or make an offer. The prices, in plain figures speak for themselves and we think talk pretty loud. Come and hear them talk. Respectfully, M. C. SMITH & SON, One Price Square Dealing Clothiers.
